Content Lists Previous — Issue/Checklist Index — Table-of-Contents Next — Issue/Checklist Index — Table-of-Contents Debut issue of Detective Story Magazine (October 5, 1915) Detective Story Magazine was an American magazine published by Street & Smith from 15 October 1915 to summer, 1949 (1,057 edition). It was one of the first pulp magazines dedicated to detective fiction and composed of short stories and serials. [1] While the publication was pulp magazine's first detective-fiction magazine in a form similar to modern paperback (a thick book in parlance dime-novel), Street & Smith only recently stopped publishing the Dime-novel series Nick Carter Weekly, which related to the adventures of a young detective. From 21 February 1931 until its destruction, the magazine had the title Street & Smith’s Detective Story Magazine. Halfway through his 34-year life, the magazine was popular enough to support weekly questions. Ludwig Wittgenstein, an eminent philosopher, was among the magazine's readers. [3] Radio promotional photography for the detective story Hour, with James La Curt as Shadow (1930) The stories from the magazine were first heard on radio on 31 July 1930. The Street and Smith Detective Hour of The Story was narque in a mysterious character named The Shadow. [4] Confused listeners would ask for copies of The Shadow. As a result, Street & Smith debuted The Shadow Magazine on April 1, 1931, pulp created and primarily written by the denouable Walter B. Gibson. The success of The Shadow and Doc Savage also prompted Street & Smith to revive Nick Carter as a heroic pulp that ran from 1933 to 1936. The popular radio show Nick Carter, the lead detective, aired on the Mutual Broadcasting System from 1943 to 1955. Authors Authors published in the detective story include: A. E. Apple Agatha Christie Carroll John Daly Arthur Conan Doyle H. Irving Hancock McCulley Fulton Oursler Arthur B. Reeve Sax Rohmer Thomas Thursday Edgar Wallace Editors Frank E. Blackwell (1915-1938) Anthony M. Rud (1938) Hazlett Kessler (1939-1940) R.B. Miller (1941) Ronald Oliphant (1942) Daisy Bacon (May 1942-Summer 1949) Sees the List of Street & Smith publications References ^ Cox, J. Randolph (2000).
